PREFATORY NOTICE.

No pains have been spared in the preparation of this edition of the LANDED GENTRY. Every available source of information has been exhausted, each memoir has been most carefully revised, and in almost every instance the head of each family and many of the collaterals have been consulted. The correspondence thus carried on has brought thousands of communications from those most competent to improve the work. It is, therefore, confidently hoped that my History of the Landed Proprietors of the United Kingdom, the favourite occupation of a lifetime, may now be considered an authority on the subject of which it treats.

As now submitted to the public, it will be found, I am sanguine enough to think, an adequate and faithful record of a very influential and important class, and will form, in conjunction with my "Peerage and Baronetage" and "General Armory," a comprehensive history, genealogical and heraldic, of the titled and untitled aristocracy of this realm.

TYSSSEN-AMHERST OF DIDDLINGTON HALL.

- III. Florence-Margaret.

- V. Alicia-Margaret.
- VI. Geraldine-Margaret.

Lineage.—The name of Amherst or, as it was variously spelled in ancient documents, Amhurst, Hamherst, Hemeherst, or Emherst, is taken from a place called Amherst or Hamherst, which lyeth in Pembury parish, near Tunbridge, in the co. of Kent.

The first of the name that appears on record is "GILBERT E HEMHERST," who is placed on the Pipe Roll of the 15th HENRY III., A.D. 1230.

The next is ROGER DE HEMHERST, who is mentioned in a deed of which a copy is preserved in the College of Arms, London, and placed upon the pedigree of the family of Amherst, attested by Camden.

His descendant, Walter, who is mentioned in the above deed, appears upon the Subsidy Roll, 1st EDWARD III., 1227, as WALTERUS DE EMHERST, also on the roll of 12th EDWARD III., 1338. Again in the 14th EDWARD III., as Walterus de Hamherst; 15th EDWARD III., as Walter de Hamherst; again in the 21st EDWARD III., 1347, as Walterus de Emherst, and in the 22nd moiety of the roll as Walterus de Hemeherst; in the next year, 22nd EDWARD III., 1348, the name of Johanna Hamherst, most probably his widow, appears, as his name does not occur upon that or any subsequent roll.

In the 25th EDWARD III., 1351, appears the name of Johannes de Amherst. In the roll also appear Galfridus Judd and Robertus Bourgege. With these families it appears the Amhersts afterwards intermarried; and the lands called Juddy's Lands are handed down by many of the early wills, and descended to the East Farleigh branch.

In the next year, 1352, appear John Amherst and William Amhurst in connection with the heirs of Galfridus Judd and Robert Bourgege.

In the 46th EDWARD III., 1372, appears Isabell Amherst, most probably widow of John and mother of William Amherst. The names of the payers of the subsidies are not entered upon the subsequent rolls, the amount for each district only being given. The pedigree above alluded to as attested by Camden, begins with John Amherst, of Amherst, in the parish of Pembury, near Tunbridge, Kent (most probably the son of William and grandson of John), who was living in the 22nd RICHARD II., 1399, and left a son and heir, Thomas, whose son and heir, Thomas, appears upon record in 1433 as one of the chief persons in the district; he d. 1460, possessed, as appears by his will, dated 1459, of much land in Pembury, Capell, and Hadlo, and of Juddy's Lands in Tudeley. OLIVE-MAUD.

Lineage.—This family was of high station in the co. of Dorset at a very remote period (its name appearing in Domesday Book), and so early as the reign of Edward I., several of its members represented the borough of Shaftesbury in Parliament. The pedigree and history, as anciently of Ancketill's Place, near Shaftesbury, and East Almer, near Sturminster Marshall, and more anciently of Lye, near Wimborne, and as now represented by ANCKETILL of Ancketill's Grove, are given in the 3rd edition of Hutchins' History of Dorset, and there carried down to the year 1863; the pedigree extends to twenty-three generations, and shows intermarriages with the most distinguished of the old Dorset families. The history shows the active part which this family took as Royalists in the time of Charles I. in Dorset, and that its descendants and representatives in Ireland, when called upon, were not found wanting in devotion to what they considered the right cause.

Additional details of the family will be found in Mr. Shirley's "History of the County of Monaghan."

Lineage.—The Archers came into England with WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR. The name is found in the Roll of Battle Abbey. It has been variously written as Le Archer or Archard. Robert, son of Fulbert Archer, was tutor to HENRY I., and received a grant of seven manors, co. Berks, in which grant King HENRY styles him, "Magister meus."

One of the family, viz., Thomas Archer, Esq., M.P. co. Warwick, was created by letters patent 1747, Baron Archer of Umberslade, co. Warwick.

The line before us has been settled in co. Cornwall above five hundred years. We find in the Record of Assize Roll at Launceston, 30 EDWARD I., HENRY LE ARCHER, holding lands, with the names of Amaramda his wife and Dionis his daughter mentioned; also of Amadeus, son of John le Archer.

The elder branch, originally seated at the Lizard (where the name "Hall Archer" still exists) became extinct by the marriage of Jane, dau. of Archard or Archer, with James Evelis, temp. EDWARD III.

A younger branch, however, still continued, of which JOHN ARCHER was M.P. for Helston, 1452, and Thomas ARCHER at the head of a subscription list for rebuilding Bodmin Church, 1468.

The family was then, or at any rate early in the 16th century is appears from the oldest registers of that parish), seated in t. ARTHUR OF GLANOMERA.

ARTHUR, THOMAS, Esq. of Glanomera, co. Clare, b. 10 Sept. 1806; s. his father in 1845; m. Elizabeth, dau. of Capt. John Butler, of Kilmoyler, descended from Pierce, 7th son of James, 9th Earl of Ormonde.

Lineage.—The ARTHURS are stated to have been originally "Artureighs," and to derive their descent from a common ancestor with the O'Briens, viz., Cormac Cas, King of Munster. The name, it is further asserted, was anglicised, in common with many others, on the invasion of Ireland by Henry II., who is stated to have conferred honours and grants of land on one of that name in 1178. In the records of Limerick, the name of Arthur frequently occurs from the earliest period down to the time of Charles I., when the family estates in the county of Limerick were confiscated by Oliver Cromwell for loyalty to the royal cause. The ARTHURS then removed to the co. Clare, and became seated at Glanomera. On the municipal roll of the city of Limerick are given the names of no less than forty-eight ARTHURS as Mayors, &c., of that city. From John Arthur, who was Mayor of Limerick in 1340, we pass to Sir Nicholas Arthur, Knt., Mayor in 1591, who also represented the city in parliament. Thomas Arthur was Bishop of Limerick in 1470, and Richard Arthur was Roman Catholic Bishop in 1643. Rev. Geoffrey Arthur of the Church of Rome, Treasurer of the cathedral of Limerick, d. 1519, and was buried there, where his monument, with a curious Latin inscription, may still be seen. Edward Arthur was M.P. for the city of Limerick 1559, and Thomas Arthur 1585.

GREAVES-BAGSHAWE OF FORD HALL.

GREAVES-BAGSHAWE, WILLIAM-HENRY, Esq. of Ford Hall, co. Derby, and of Banner Cross, co. York, J.P. for former co., b. 13 Aug. 1831; m. 24 Sept. 1856, Martha, dau. of the late Joseph Bowmer, Esq. of Lancayo House, co. Monmouth, and of Draycott, co. Derby, by whom he has issue,

I. WILLIAM-MURRAY-CALDWELL, b. 19 Oct. 1864.

II. Mary-Catherine-Murray.

III. Frances-Alice-Devereux.

Lineage.—The name of Bagshawe, which is of Saxon origin, and signifies "a small wooded glen," was taken by this family from their ancient residence in the Peak of Derby. From Bagshawe, which is situated in the parish of Chapel-en-le-Firth, a branch of the parent stock appears to have removed, within a century after the Norman Conquest, to the Ridge, a commanding eminence in the same parish, distant only two miles from their former home. Here they remained for upwards of six hundred years, until the Ridge estate was conveyed by marriage to the father of Sir William Fitzherbert, Bart. of Tissington. In the Harl. MS., 1093, fo. 27, the direct descendants of the first Thomas Bagshawe, of the Ridge (who was living in 1141), are traced for five generations; and from Woolley's MSS. some further particulars respecting the early history of this family may be obtained. The immediate ancestor of the Bagshawes of Abney, Ford, Hucklow, and Wormhill, is said to have been NICHOLAS, 4th son of THOMAS BAGSHAUGH, of The Ridge; his eldest son was Edward, father of HENRY BAGSHAWE, of the Ridge, mentioned amongst "the persons of quality" residing in co. Derby, whose names were returned by royal commissioners, 12 HENRY VI.; but some good authorities regard the Abney branch of the Bagshawes of Bagshawe, as older than that of The Ridge. The Visitation pedigrees commence with

NICHOLAS BAGSHAWE, of Abney and Wormhill, co. Derby (Forester to the King). He m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of John de la Hall, of Hucklow, co. Derby, whose ancestor of the same name was Forester to EDWARD III., created by deed dated 1349. The son and heir was

WILLIAM BAGSHAWE, of Abney, co. Derby, whose descendants were long seated at Abney, and Farewell Abbey, co. Stafford. They were Lords of the Manor of Abney, and intermarried with the Rugeleys of Longdon, co. Stafford, Lords of the Manor of Bylson; with the Bowdons of Bowdon, co. Derby; and the families of Harcourt, Lynacre, Bainbridge, and Greatorex of Greatorex, co. Derby. As each generation of this branch of the Bagshawes is given in BURKE's Commoners, it will be sufficient to add the following particulars, which are not there recorded. The name of Sir William Bagshawe, of Hope, co. Derby, occurs in 1523 amongst the title deeds of the Ford estate; another member of the family, Sir Edward Bagshawe, settled in Ireland, and d. at Finglas, near Dublin, 6 Oct. 1657; Frances, dau. of Nicholas Bagshawe, of Abney, and Farewell Abbey (who registered his pedigree and arms at Glover's Visitation of Stafford, 1583), m. Sir John Bentley, of Breadsall Park, co. Derby; and Alice, dau. of Nicholas Bagshawe, of Abney, was wife of Robert Shakerley, of Longston, co. Derby, and mother of Grace, Countess of Shrewsbury. The 5th in direct descent from William Bagshawe of Abney, above mentioned.

WILLIAM BAGSHAWE, of Hucklow, Abney, Litton, and Ford, co. Derby, Lord of the Manor of Hucklow, appeared at Sir William Dugdale's Visitation of Derby, 1662, and was then 64 years of age. In 1363 Roger Batyn was Rector of Dowlish Wake, and in 1402, John Battyn was Rector of West Coker, both in Somerset. From 1427 the name continually occurs in the Archives of St. Michael, Bath. Robert Batyn, or as he is sometimes called Batten, sat in Parliament for that city in 1471, and acted as Royal Commissioner for raising an aid there in 1503. Thomas Batten was Steward of the Priory of Bath in 1534. After the dissolution of Monasteries the family appear to have removed from Bath to other parts of the county; one branch settling on the borders of the Bristol Channel, of which was Andrew Batten of Easton St. George's, father of Admiral SIR WILLIAM BATTEN, Knt., one of the most eminent naval commanders in the Civil War, and Surveyor of the Navy to Charles I. and Charles II. Another branch (of which we treat) settled in the more western parts of Somersetshire, the immediate ancestor of which line was,

JOHN BATTEN, of Michael Church (the son probably of John Batten of Cannington, who d. 1550). In 1597 he was assessed to a subsidy for his estate in that parish, and was s. at his death by his son, v. John-Lloyd, b. 14 Dec. 1856; d. 2 Feb. 1857.

i. Leonora-Sophia, m. 1858, John Ramsay, Esq. of Barra, co. Aberdeen; d. 4 Feb. 1862.

Lineage.—A pedigree drawn up about 1636, now in the possession of Mr. Bond, of Creech Grange, deduces the descent of his ancestor, DENIS BOND, from a family of the same name which was seated from a very remote period first at Penryn, and then at Earth, in Cornwall. A younger branch said to have removed to Hache Beauchamp, in Somersetshire, where, as is proved by a contemporary record, JOHN LE BOUND was residing in the first year of King EDWARD III., 1327.*

The pedigree, however, of the BONDS of the Isle of Purbeck, in the Visitation of Dorset of 1623, at the College of Arms, commences with,

ROBERT BOND, of Hache Beauchamp, who was living in 1431, 9 HENRY VI., and was father of ROBERT BOND, of Hache Beauchamp, m. 1453, Mary, dau. of Sir John Hody, of Pillesdon, Dorset, Knt., Lord Chief Justice of England 18 HENRY VI., by whom he had issue, WILLIAM, his successor; and John Bond, of Buckland, Dorset, father of Sir Nicholas Bond, of London, Knt., d. s. p. m.

WILLIAM BOND, of Herrington, Dorset, eldest son of Robert, was b. 1455. In 1510 he purchased the estate of Lutton, in the parish of Steeple, in the Isle of Purbeck, which then became the principal seat of the family, and still remains in their possession. In 1529, 21 HENRY VIII., he was M.P. for Weymouth. He m. 1st, in 1496, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of John Frowz, of Bridy, Dorset, by whom he had a son, DENIS, his successor. By his 2nd

* At West Buckland, Somerset, not far from Hache Beauchamp, was seated in the reign of HENRY VIII., a WILLIAM BOND, who, according to the old pedigree above mentioned, represented a younger branch of the BONDS of Hache Beauchamp, and was nearly allied to those of Dorsetshire. He is described in the Visitation of London, in the College of Arms, as "ex vetustissima Bondorum stirpe in provinciâ Cornubiæ oriundus." He d. in 1549, leaving by Dionese his wife, dau. of John Bourman, of Hemyoke, Devon, son of Nicholas Bourman, by Elizabeth, sister of John Russell, 1st Earl of Bedford,

i. WILLIAM BOND, of Crosby Place, London, Alderman and Sheriff of that city, d. 1576, and to whom and his son, Martin Bond, there are interesting monuments in the church of Great St. Helen's, Bishopsgate Street. By his will he gave a legacy to John Bond, of Ingatstone, Essex, and late of Chickereel, Dorset, mentioned above.

ii. SIR GEORGE BOND, Knt., Lord Mayor of London in 1587, ancestor of Sir Thomas Bond, Controller of the Household of Queen HENRIETTA-MARIA, who was created a Baronet in 1658. Sir Thomas was the founder of Old Bond Street, in what was then a suburb of London, a speculation which proved disastrous. The baronetcy became extinct in the Bond family, 22 June, 1676.

wife, Lucy, dau. of William Stanley, of Winterbourne Wast, Dorset, he had another son, John, of Chickereel, Dorset, m. Ann, dau. of John Holmsted, of Ingatstone, Essex; and from this alliance the BONDS of Essex derived, who made a difference in their arms to distinguish them as a younger branch, and bore arg., on a chevron sa. a bear's head erased or, muzzled gu., between two bezants.

William Bond dying about 1541, was s. by his elder son,

DENIS BOND, of Lutton, b. 1500; m. 1532, Alice, dau. of Robert Samways, of Toller, Dorset, and had several children, of whom,

Robert, the eldest son, m. 1555, Avis, dau. of Walter Clavell, of Winfrith, Dorset, who d. s. p. m.

Richard, 2nd son, m. and had issue.

William, 3rd son, b. 1554; resided at Blackmanston, in the Isle of Purbeck, and m. 1585, Anne, dau. and co-heir of Richard Long, of Glastonbury, Somerset; but as he left no male issue, his ample possessions in Dorset and Somerset were divided amongst his three daus. and co-heirs. Edith, the eldest dau. m. 1613, Sir William Beckonshaw, Knt. of Moyle's Court, Hants, by whom she had only two daus., his co-heirs; Alice, the eldest of these m. in 1636, John Lisle, of the Isle of Wight, who afterwards became a member of Cromwell's House of Lords, and one of the Commissioners of his Great Seal. She was cruelly condemned to death, on the pretended charge of high treason, by Judge Jefferies, and beheaded at Winchester, 2 Sept. 1685. This judgment was afterwards reversed by Act of Parliament (see State Trials).

John, of whom we treat.

The 4th son,

JOHN BOND, Esq. of Lutton, b. 1555, continued the line of the family, and was appointed in 1588, Captain of the Isle of Portland, at the time of the expected invasion by the Spanish Armada. He m. 1583, Margaret, dau. of Richard Pitt, Esq. of North Crickett, Somerset, and had issue,

He d. 1632, and was s. by his son,

DENIS BOND, Esq. of Lutton, b. 1588. This gentleman, at the breaking out of the Civil War, joined the side of the Parliament, being at that time one of the representatives for the borough of Dorchester. He subsequently rose high in the favour of CROMWELL, and had the confidence of the Parliament as well as of the PROTECTOR. From the commencement of the Civil War, he was of the committee for his own county, and from 1654 to 1656, he was M.P. for Weymouth, and one of the Council of State from 1648 to 1652. He was likewise Clerk of the Pells in the Exchequer, and was nominated one of the Judges against the ill-fated King; but although he had a real and fixed aversion to the rule of King CHARLES, yet he could not be prevailed upon to take his seat, or in any way to promote the death of the monarch. Mr. Bond m. 1st, 1610, Joane, dau. of John Gould, Esq. of Dorchester and Frome Bellet, by whom he had issue, JOHN, LL.D., M.P. for Melcombe Regis, 16 CHARLES I., one of the assembly of divines in 1643, Master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, Preacher before the Long Parliament; and d. s. p. in 1676.

William, of South Bestwall, Dorset, m. 1652, Mary, sole dau. and heir of John Selby, of Winterborn, and d. 1669, leaving, amongst other children, two daus., Mary and Margaret, who eventually became his co-heirs. The former, by her 2nd husband, James Gould, Esq. of Dorchester, was mother of an only child, Mary, m. 1st, General Charles Churchill, brother of John, 1st Duke of Marlborough; 2ndly, Montague, 2nd Earl of Abingdon, and d. s. p. 1757. This staunch patriot dying 30 Aug. 1658* was buried in Westminster Abbey, and s. at Lutton by his son by his 2nd marriage,

NATHANIEL BOND, Esq. of Lutton, b. 1634, who was bred to the bar, and became King's Serjeant. He purchased in 1636,

* "On the 30th Aug. 1658, being then Monday, and the windiest day that had before happened for twenty years, he paid his last debt to nature; at which time, as the then vulgar talk was, the devil came to take away Oliver Cromwell, who then lay on his death bed, but being not prepared for him, he gave bond for his future appearance, and accordingly, on the Friday following, being the 3rd of September, he made good his promise."—Wood's Athenæ Oxonienses.

BOURKE OF CURRAGHLEAGH.

BOURKE, WALTER MATHEW PATRICK, Esq. of Curraghleagh, co. Mayo, and Rahassane Park, co. Galway, M.A., Barrister-at-Law, and Advocate of the High Court at Calcutta, educated at Stonyhurst and Clongowes Wood, and graduated in Trin. Coll., Dublin, as Senior Moderator.

Lineage.—WILLIAM-FITZADELM DE BURGO, the first of the name in Ireland, succeeded Strongbow as Chief Governor of that country in 1177, in which year he founded the abbey of St. Thomas & Beckett in Dublin, and in 1200 that of Athassel, co. Tipperary, where he was interred, as was also William de Burgo, Lord of Clanricard, A.D. 1248. His descendants held a conspicuous place in Irish history. They were Earls of Ulster and Lords of Connaught, of part of Munster, and of the manor of Trim, and others in Leinster (these titles became merged in the royal title through the marriage of Elizabeth de Burgh with Lionel, Duke of Clarence).

They filled many of the highest offices—six of them having been Chief Governors, and two Lords-Treasurers of Ireland—and were not less eminent in the Church, one having been Archbishop of Tuam, five, Bishops, and four, Superiors of religious houses and Provincials of Orders. They were equally distinguished for fidelity to the cause of their country, and adherence to the royal house during the troubles of the 17th century.

A hundred and fifty years later ten members of this family (six being of the Mayo line) were Cols. of regiments or leaders of independent troops or companies in the service of King JAMES II., and others, fifteen of whom were included in the subsequent outlawries taken at Strude, co. Mayo, crowded the muster roll of commissioned officers in twenty-six of that King's Irish regiments. One was Governor of Athlone; another of Galway, and a third, William Bourke, cousin of Lieut.-Col. Walter Bourke, of Carrowkeel, was ordered by King James to defend the Castle of Grange, co. Sligo, when being vigorously besieged, and, disappointed of promised succours, he blew up the castle at the moment the besiegers were about to enter the breach, and, with many of his enemies, was buried in the ruins.

WILLIAM-FITZADELM was ancestor of the Earl of Mayo, of Sir Richard de Burgo, of Castleconnell, co. Limerick, of Lord Downes, of the Marquess of Clanricarde, and of others among the nobility, as well as of many whose titles are extinct.

SIR EDMOND-ALBANACH, fourth in descent from William Fitzadelm, and great grandson of Richard de Burgo, Lord of Connaught and Trim, who d. in 1243, was ancestor of the Mayo Bourkes, and by the law of tanistry, became elective head of that family, with the title of Lord MacWilliam Bourke, five years after the murder of his kinsman, William de Burgo, the Brown Earl of Ulster, by Sir John Mandeville, in 1333. Sir Edmond died, "well stricken in years," in 1375, leaving one son, by Sabina, dau. of Dermott O'Malley, of the Owles (the Baronies of Murrisk and Burrisheel, co. Mayo), ancestor of Granuaile (Grisela O'Malley), who m. Richard-an-Ieran Bourke (Iron Dick), and was mother of the first Viscount Bourke, of Mayo.

Mayo, and of those of Bortkeen, Newtown and Thomastown, co. Tipperary, and Derm and Old Town, co. Kildare. He founded the cell of Arnagh (for the Abbey of Cong). V. Richard, of Turlough, co. Mayo, s. his brother Thomas in the MacWilliamship in 1460, and d. nine years after (having previously resigned his lordship). He was ancestor of the Bourkes of Turlough. Thomas Bourke of this family was M.P. for Mayo co. in 1639, and Sir William was included in the royal declaration of thanks, as for services beyond sea. In 1689, Walter Bourke was M.P. for Mayo co., and Col. of a regt. in the service of King JAMES. Two of his brothers were in the same service, Theobald as Col., and Thomas, who was M.P. for Castlebar, as Capt. Col. Walter Bourke and Capt. Thomas Bourke were included in the Royal Commission of 10 March, 1690. After the treaty of Limerick, the former retired to France with his regt., called the regt. of Athlone. He was greatly distinguished in subsequent campaigns, and d. Field-Marshal in 1715. At the siege of Crenona, which he defended against Prince Eugene in 1703, his regt., and that of Henry Dillon, repulsed the Austrians who had surprised the sleeping garrison.

Mayo. His dau. Joane, was 2nd wife of David Bourke, by whom she had Walter, ancestor of the Bourkes of Partry. This David Bourke had, by his 1st wife, Richard-an-Ieran (Iron Dick), father of Theobald-na-Lung. 1st Lord Viscount Mayo. The five eldest sons of Sir Richard were,

He aided the Earl of Kildare at the sanguinary battle of Knocktugh in 1504, mainly contributing to the victory, and d. the year after, leaving "many sons, whose issue are all extinct but those of his son Oliver." The abbey of Teach Saxon is supposed to have been founded by this John Bourke.

OLIVER BOURKE, of Tyrawley, co. Mayo, Lord MacWilliam Bourke, in 1513 (after his uncle, Edmond, of Castlebar), was engaged at the battle of Bellahoe, 1539. He left eight sons by the dau. of Hugh-Dubh O'Donnell,

I. Sir John, of Ardnahee, Castlereagh, &c., co. Mayo, s. his father, Oliver, as Lord MacWilliam Bourke, and led the Lower Bourkes (of Mayo) against Richard Sassanagh, 2nd Earl of Clanricarde, and Sir Edward Fitton, Lord President of Connaught under Queen ELIZABETH, who were encroaching on that county, defeated them at the battle of Shrule, in 1570, and compelled them to retire to Galway. His brother, David, of Rathroe Castle, Inniscree, and Carrowkeel, co. Mayo, ancestor of the Bourkes of Carrowkeel, and of Curraghkeagh, was killed at that battle. late Sir Thomas Macdougall Brisbane, Bart., G.C.B.,

27 Jan. 1860; m. June, 1860, Florence Frances

Henrietta, dau. of Montagu John Tatham, Esq.

Lineage.—This family appears to have possessed Bishop-ton, in Renfrewshire, with lands in cos. Stirling and Ayr, long prior to the date of any charters they have preserved. Crawfurd, in his Renfrewshire, takes notice of "Bishopton, the ancient inheritance of the Brisbanes, the chief of that name," and of "Allanus de Brysbane, filius Whelheim de Brysbane, who obtained a grant of the lands of Macherach, in Stirling-shire, to which Malcolm, the Earl of Wigton (so created, in 1334), is witness."

MATHEW BRISBANE, of Bishopton, the descendant of this ancient house, falling at the battle of Flodden, 9 Sept. 1513, and leaving no issue, was s. by his brother,

JOHN BRISBANE, whose retour of service in the lands of Killincraig, &c., holding of the Crown, relates the circumstance of his brother's death at Flodden; and whose charter, dated 4 July, 1514, of the estate of Bishopton, is granted by John, Lord Erskine, son of Lord Robert, who also fell at Flodden. This John Brisbane was s. by his son,

JOHN BRISBANE, of Bishopton, who, as heir of his father, obtained a charter, dated 12 Aug. 1523, from John, 3rd Earl of Lennox, of the lands of Ballincelrach, in the district of Campsie, co. Stirling. From a sasine, dated 1523, it appears that his wife was Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Lindsay, of Dunrod. He fell at the battle of Pinkie, 10 Sept. 1547, and was s. by his son,

JOHN BRISBANE, of Bishopton, served heir to his father in

The old writings of the family were mostly carried away or destroyed, when Lord Lewis Gordon, afterwards (3rd) Marquess of Huntly, burnt Brodie House, in 1645. JOHN DE LA STEDE resided, as we find from several ancient deeds, at Onesacre, 1417, as did his immediate successors, Thomas, John, John, and Nicholas de la Stede.

THOMAS STEADE, Esq. of Hillsboro' b. 1728 (7th in descent from Nicholas Steade), m. 1768, Millicent, dau. of Strelley Pegge, Esq. of Beauchief Abbey, and sister of Peter Pegge, of Winkburn Hall, who devised his estates to his nephew, the late Mr. Pegge Burnell. By her he had issue, PETER PEGGE-BURNELL was 3rd and youngest son of Strelley Pegge, of Beauchief Abbey, Derbyshire, to whose estates he succeeded, as also to those of his distant relative, D'Arcy Burnell, of Winkburn, Notts, 1784. On his marriage with Mary, relict of J. Lee, Esq. of Chesterfield, he also became the possessor of considerable property in that neighbourhood. At the death of Mary, relict of D'Arcy Burnell, 1784, the said Peter Pegge took the name of BURNELL in addition.

The Burnell family has been settled at Winkburn since the time of King EDWARD VI., when the monastery of Winkburn, together with the parish, formerly belonging to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, was granted to John Burnell, Merchant, of London, in exchange for certain lands in Sussex (see Thoroton's Nottinghamshire).

The Pegges were settled at Ashbourne, in Derbyshire, when Edward Pegge m. Gertrude, only dau. and heiress of Nicholas Strelley, of Beauchief Abbey. By this marriage the Strelley estates at Beauchief passed into the Pegge family.

Lingen of Lingen, Sutton, Stoke-Edith and Tuddbrook.

The family of Lingen is of great antiquity, and was, at a very early period, seated at a small village of that name, about two miles from Wigmore, in Herefordshire, the Lord of which Castle, Ralph de Mortimer, held Lingham at the Domesday Survey. Under Mortimer, the occupant of Lingham, was Turstin, usually styled Turstin de Wigmore. There is a town called Lingen in Westphalia, not far removed from the limits of ancient Flanders, and it is not improbable that Turstin may have come from Lingen, in Germany, and have given that name to the village he acquired near Wigmore. This supposition would be further confirmed if it were certain that Turstin de Wigmore, of Domesday, and Turstin, the Flandrian, also named therein, were identical (see Eyron's Antiquities of Shropshire).

CAMPBELL OF SCHAWFIELD AND ISLAY.

CAMPBELL, JOHN FRANCIS, Esq. of Islay, b. 29 Dec. 1822, Barrister-at-Law, one of H.M. Grooms in Waiting.

Lineage.—The first Campbell family of "Skippinche," (the name is variously spelt in books and writings) sprang from Archibald, 2nd Earl of Argyll (charter 1511).

In the reign of Queen Mary, the heiress of this branch married one of the family of Ardkinglas. From 1553 till the Union, 1707, the annals of minor county families in the West were very scanty, but some few records of the Campbells of Skippinche remain, from which the following names and dates are taken. In 1576, Mathews Campbell, Capitaneus castris de "Skippinche," and his wife, Dervergilla McAllister, granted a charter. In 1588, Mathew, Captain of Skippinche, witnesses a marriage contract. In 1620 Mathew was Capt. of Skippinche. In 1645, according to popular history, Walter, Capt. of Skippinche, was slain at Demavertic, in the wars of the Marquis of Argyll with the MacDonalds in Ceantire. In 1670, Walter Campbell, Capt. of "Skippinche," got a charter from his chief, the Earl of Argyll, in which mention is made of his father, Mathew. Thenceforth county registers, entails, and other papers supply information.

In 1685, the Earl of Argyll summoned Walter, Capt. of "Skippinche," who was out with his chief in the rising.

In 1702, this "Capt. of Skippinche" died. He was twice, if not thrice married, and left a numerous family.

His sons were,

I. ANGUS, or JENEAS, to whom he left Skipynche in fee under the charter in which he was named. JENEAS or ANGUS CAMPBELL signed a declaration of loyalty to the Crown at Inverary, in 1715. CAMPBELL OF BALLOCHYLE.

CAMPBELL, MACIVER FORBES MORISON, Esq. of Ballochyle, co. Argyll, b. 1 June, 1867; s. his father 1872.

Lineage.—This family, one of great antiquity in Cowal, co. Argyll, although, like other families of the same blood in that co., incorporated for some centuries in the Clan Campbell, is of the ancient race known as the Clan Iver. The ancestors of that Clan, which is traceable to Glenlyon in co. Perth, under their heroic chief Iver-Crom, bore an important part in the expedition of ALEXANDER II. of Scotland in 1221, which resulted in the subjugation of Argyll proper and of Cowal to the power of the Crown, and they were rewarded with lands in both districts. A large portion of those lands in Argyll was formed into a barony under the title of Dominium de Mac Iver or Mac Iver's Lairdship. The Cowal acquisitions came, after the conquest aforesaid, into the possession of a member of the family of whom tradition has not preserved the name, but whose undoubted representatives are the Mac Ivers of Strathachie, latterly the Campbells of Ballochyle.

The offshoots of this family occasionally spelt their name McIver, which passed into McUre, and by dropping of the prefix (a process of which the examples are abundant in Highland patronymics) into Ure. The bearers of that name, who are found in cos. Dumbarton, Stirling, &c., are doubtless descendants of the Cowal MacIvers. The name Ure has been ignorantly confounded by some heraldic writers with that of Urie or Urrie, a name of English origin.
